Bill Analysis: This bill raises the maximum price allowed for lucky 7 ticket packs or cards.

Sponsors:
Sen. Avard

Who supports the bill: Rick Newman (Grover Gaming), Ashely Chouramaris (Grover Gaming), Mike McLaughlin (Arrow Int.), Fran Wendelboe (Power House Gaming), Julie Smith

Who opposes the bill: Dick Bouley (Diamond Distributors)

Who is neutral on the bill: no one

Summary of testimony presented:

Sen. Avard

- This bill allows private clubs, service clubs, and fraternal organizations like legions and VFW halls to stay competitive with lucky 7 tickets by raising the max wager amount to ten dollars.
- Other gambling laws allow higher wagers.
- Most might not use this option, but in the southern tier of the state this would greatly help level the playing field.
- Sen. Avard presented an amendment that allows for the higher wagers only on electronic dispensing devises. Some were concerned about the potential for dishonest practices with higher wagers on the paper tickets.

Rick Newman – Grover Gaming, in support

- Grover Gaming is a manufacturer of electronic lucky 7 dispensing devices.
- He provided letters from various clubs throughout the state expressing support for the bill.
- These service and veterans' clubs use lucky 7 tickets to raise money for the good work they do.
- Currently the max wager is one dollar. This would raise it to ten dollars.

- He doesn't anticipate everyone will go to a ten-dollar ticket.
- It makes sense to have the flexibility if that's what a particular group wants depending on where they are located.
- He supports the amendment. They have nothing against the paper ticket manufacturers, but it is much easier to monitor the sale of tickets on electronic dispensing devise.

Sen. Murphy asked why there remains a mandate for 50 cent tickets.
Mr. Newman explained that it goes back to former Rep. Mary Griffin. She was the guardian of bingo on House Ways and Means. When the ticket price was raised to one dollar, some places wanted to make sure they could still have a 50-cent ticket for those customers who want it.

Mike McLaughlin – Arrow International

- Arrow International is a manufacturer of bingo supplies and pull tabs. They are in favor of the bill.
- The ten-dollar ticket would not be just for social clubs. Bingo operations would also be able to avail themselves of this option.
- They favor the amendment and the option only being available on the electronic dispensing devices due to the accountability they offer.
- It is an opportunity for competition. Gamblers like to go where there is action.

Sen. D'Allesandro asked what it is like when one uses a machine to purchase a lucky 7 ticket.
Mr. McLaughlin said machines right now are dispensing one-dollar tickets. You have up to 14,000 electronic tickets in the CPU, which are generated by one putting in a certain amount of money. You can put in whatever amount you would like. You would play that money until you either win and leave or exhaust your money. It is a faster way to do the pull tabs.

Fran Wendelboe – Power House Gaming

- Electronic gaming has been very successful.
- Growth trends show bingo and pull tabs were declining before the electronic option came into play.
- Electronic tickets are popular and continue to climb.
- It is important to keep the 50-cent option available for those who just play for enjoyment.
- She noted that this is an option. Her locations are mostly in the north country and might not jump to the ten-dollar ticket, but this gives them the option to go up to ten dollars if they want to.

Re: SB 139

Dear Senator Lang and members of the committee;

My name is Robin Lavertu. I represent the Northwoods Casino in Berlin. We sell Lucky 7 tickets using electronic dispensing devices at our facility to raise funds for the charities that we support. Our patrons enjoy playing the games at our facility, are happy when they win and are happy to know that they are helping local charities when they do not. Having these games in our facility increases attendance which allows us to provide additional financial support to our charitable partners.

We began to offer electronic Lucky 7 gaming last November and we have already provided hundreds of dollars to our charitable organizations. In addition, the increased traffic at our facility has resulted in increased play on the table games as well.

Increasing the ticket prices on these electronic games will further increase our revenues thereby providing more assistance to the 501 organizations that we support. With the addition of the Historic Horse Racing machines in the larger casinos of the state, I feel that increased betting on the electronic Lucky 7 devices would allow small casinos like ours to better compete.

Thank you for supporting charitable gaming in New Hampshire. I ask your support of SB139 to continue to offer the best gaming experience possible.

Sincerely,
Robin L. Lavertu, Owner
