METHODOLOGY:

This bill requires the Department to submit a demonstration waiver to the federal Food and Nutrition Service to allow for the exclusion of candy and soft drinks from the definition of eligible food under SNAP. The Department anticipates that it will cost $416,000 to facilitate retailers' adoption of the new waiver rules, as well as $42,000 for certification and $47,000 for implementation. The EBT vendor is expected to impose additional transaction fees, which the Department expects will come at a small cost of potentially $5,000. Additionally, the Department anticipates $842,000 of costs to build the waiver. The costs of customer service related to the waiver are indeterminable, but the Department estimates $25,000 per fiscal year. The Department assumes that the new waiver will be effective for FY29.

In addition to the waiver requirement, the bill requires the Department to establish an education and outreach program to help SNAP recipients make healthy food choices. The Department notes that it currently conducts a SNAP outreach program to promote the program and encourage potentially eligible households to apply, but that the outreach program does not have a nutrition component. Previously, New Hampshire had conducted a SNAP-Ed program to conduct nutrition outreach using federal funding. The federal funding utilized for the SNAP-Ed program is no longer available due to a change in federal law. The cost to either restart a program similar to SNAP-Ed or amend existing SNAP outreach programs to include nutrition programs is estimated to be approximately $1,200,000 per year. After the repeal of the SNAP-Ed program federally it is unclear whether any federal funds would be available to defray the cost of a SNAP nutritional education program. The Department assumes that the nutrition program would begin in the year the waiver begins, or FY29.

In total, the Department anticipates the bill will cost $2.6 million in FY29 and $1.4 million in subsequent years.
