METHODOLOGY:

This bill makes minor changes to the administration of the Meals and Rooms tax (M&R) by eliminating the current schedule for taxable meals under $1.00 in price and making all taxable meals taxed at the 8.5% rate; and changes the rounding to be up to the next whole nickel for taxable meals. The bill also clarifies that gross rental receipts does not include separately stated charges for highway tolls electronically billed to the owner of the vehicle.

The Department of Revenue Administration does not have sufficient data to estimate the fiscal impact of the toll charge change. The Department believes that operators may already be excluding passed-through pay-by-plate highway toll charges from their reported gross rental receipts but should be including their add-on charges with respect to those tolls as well as charges for company-owned toll devices that are added to a rental at a flat daily price or other similar charges. This is consistent with the tax treatment of motor fuel charges, although the Department's rules are silent with respect to toll charges. The Department would interpret the proposed legislation as clarifying and would expand its current rules according to the foregoing interpretation.

The Department states eliminating the current rounding schedule, will require operators to collect tax on every transaction no matter how small and could be required to collect tax of a nickel on a penny transaction. The rounding changes will also impact operators' practices and may require modifications to their point of service (POS) systems in order to remain compliant. The Department states the bill does not modify rounding for occupancies or gross rental receipts which may pose difficulties particularly for operators of hotels that collect M&R for both occupancies and taxable meals.

The Department states General Fund and Education Trust Fund revenue will increase by an indeterminable, but not material, amount by changing the rounding on taxable meals to the next whole nickel. The Department estimates a M&R revenue increase of approximately $24,000 per year based on the following: 75% of all taxable meal sales and over half of all M&R collected is attributable to restaurants and there are 3,406 total businesses with 250 transactions per day. The Department did not locate similar transaction data for other types of operators but does not believe that non-restaurant meals operators or occupancies and gross rental receipts operators, if included, would provide a revenue impact much different than the impact provided for restaurants above.

The Department would need to update forms and information systems to implement this bill. The Department does not anticipate this bill will result in any additional administrative costs that could not be absorbed within the Department's operating budget.
