LEGISLATIVE ETHICS COMMITTEE

At its meeting on September 13, 2000, the Legislative Ethics Committee unanimously voted to adopt the following Advisory Opinion, which is printed below in its entirety.

Representative Jeb E. Bradley, Chairman

Senator Richard L. Russman, Vice Chairman

Senator John A. King

Representative Janet G. Wall

Mr. Shawn N. Jasper

Attorney Peter C. Scott

ADVISORY OPINION 2000 - #1

(September 13, 2000)

The Legislative Ethics Committee received a request for an interpretation as to the application of Section 4, VI (c) of the Ethics Guidelines as it applies to a legislator's participation in discussions before a state agency regarding a matter which affects the legislator's constituents generally and which could also affect the legislator's personal financial interests. The Committee held a public hearing to receive input on July 31, 2000, and issues the following opinion.

The Ethics Guidelines prohibit a legislator from threatening a state agency or its employees with reprisals or promised inducements of any kind in an attempt to influence agency decisions so as to obtain special personal benefits for the legislator, the legislator's immediate family, or certain constituents, which would not be available to others under similar circumstances (Section 4, II (c)). The Guidelines also prohibit a legislator from using his or her public position or office to obtain anything of value for the private benefit of the legislator or the legislator's immediate family (Section 4, III).

These prohibited activities, however, must be read in conjunction with Section 4, VI (c) which states that a legislator is not prohibited from advocating for a particular outcome on matters pending before a state agency when the legislator believes such a decision would benefit the general public or the legislator's constituents generally.

The inquiry to the Committee related to the legislator's participation in discussions involving the Department of Transportation over possible alterations to a highway along which the legislator's house is located. The participation has included attendance at meetings held by the state agency to solicit comment from area residents in association with a safety study requested by the legislator's town. The conclusions reached by the safety study could determine whether there are alterations to the segment of the highway located in the town, including the area immediately abutting the legislator's property, thus potentially affecting the value of the property.

In view of the above-referenced guideline provisions, the Committee concludes that, generally, whenever a legislator advocates on behalf of an issue that primarily benefits the general public, or the legislator's constituents, and which only incidentally benefits the legislator, there is no violation of the Guidelines. In any advocacy before a state agency, however, there can be no directly or indirectly implied threat against the agency. If there are issues with respect to the direct financial interests of the legislator arising from the legislator's official activities, the legislator must make an appropriate disclosure. The legislator should be particularly mindful of Section 4, II (d) of the Ethics Guidelines which states that legislators shall not "conduct private negotiations with a state agency in an attempt to obtain a decision on a pending matter which would result in special personal benefit to the legislator, to the legislator's immediate family, or to certain constituents which would not be available to others under similar conditions." Under no circumstances may a legislator use his or her position to obtain any greater value for the legislator's private benefit than a member of the public could normally obtain.
