Good evening everyone,

If you haven't already seen today's Children and Family Law hearing, you can watch it here:

Chairman Pearson stated:

This committee will eventually vote on this bill based on this bill. And any questions of the constitutionality is not our place to decide. I believe it has been decided. It perhaps will be re-decided, but that's not what we're doing here today. When we exec, we will exec on this bill if we think it's a good bill or a bad bill. The presumption is this bill may be put forward. Others -- it is their job to rule whether this is constitutional or not. That's not us.

If any taxpayer or voter believes any proposed legislation (or existing statute) is unconstitutional, where is the best place to raise those concerns?

Thanks,

-Dana
